Music in Albuquerque

The Banner of St. George.

In "The Banner of St. George," the Albuquerque Choral society's next production, Sir Edward Elgar, the composer, made use of the old legend of George and the dragon, similar to the majority of people from childhood days. According to this legend, George played the part of a Christian knight in the third century after Christ. Educated in Cappadocia, he is called the "Knight of Cappadocia," but the exact location and date of his famous combat with the monster remains unknown. In spite of the vagueness connected with the whole affair, the legend of the knight, the prince, and the dragon, has become woven into the civilization of Europe, since George has been adopted as the patron saint of England, and also of Portugal and Russia; and the story of his struggle has undoubtedly thrilled many boys in many different countries as they have heard it recited for the first time.

The legend tells, as everyone knows, of the awful dragon, who daily received a maiden as his tribute from the city. One day the daughter of the king announces her intention of paying this tribute herself. While she is waiting at the dragon's turn, she appears bearing the famous banner with its red cross on a field of white, and declares herself champion of the hapless maid. The combat ensues, the dragon is slain, and Saint George takes his departure.

This dramatic story has been treated as only an Englishman, and a great Englishman like Elgar, could treat it. The points of contrast between strength and delicacy have been seized with a masterly hand, and the whole story is worked out in such a way as to bring the legend out to life. After the story is finished the second episode follows, in march form, a stirring piece of music, which rivets attention on the banner of St. George, and brings out the significance of its emblem. Although the cantata was extremely successful in England, where it was first produced, it carries a universal appeal and an appeal that few can resist. From Great Britain to Albuquerque is perhaps a far cry, but that the Albuquerque Choral society will hear this cantata on April 14th will be an enthusiastic overture to the members of the Albuquerque Choral society have themselves become, there can be no doubt, the "Banner of St. George" is pre-eminently a cantata that will be remembered.

The second concert of the Albuquerque Choral society will take place Tuesday evening, April 14th, at the Presbyterian church. The program is an unusually pleasing one.

Besides the splendid chorus numbers there will be a piano selection by Mrs. Mabel Stevens Hines, and Thomas A. Christian will sing a cycle of songs.

"The Banner of St. George," is, of course, the big number on the program. There is a shorter selection, "My Love Dwell in a Northern Land," also by Elgar, and a stirring selection, "The Song of the Vikings," by Panning, which will be sung as the opening number. A chorus of women's voices will sing "O, Lovely Night," from the opera of Hoffmann by Offenbach, and the program will close with the "Hallelujah Chorus" from "The Messiah." It is hoped the people of this city will give this concert their enthusiastic support and make it a greater success than the first concert.

The society will rehearse at the Presbyterian church tomorrow afternoon at 2:15.

Thursday Morning Music Club.
The Thursday Morning Music club has planned an exceptionally interesting program for its meeting next week.

Verdi's life will be reviewed and a number of musical selections from his operas will be rendered. His operas are perhaps the most widely popular of any which have ever been composed, and this program will appeal particularly because so many are familiar with his compositions.

The program follows:
Life of Verdi—Mrs. W. D. Bryan
Piano Selections from Rigoletto—Miss Louise Nichols
Vocal Solo from Il Trovatore—Mrs. Charles Andrews
Violin Selection—Prof. El Mauro
Accompanied by Miss Louise Nichols
Aria from Traviata—Mrs. Ada Pierce Winn
Habit Miter—Mrs. Edward C. Rossini
The student section of the Thursday club met this afternoon at the Presbyterian church and the following program was given:

Paper—Sonata Forina, Mrs. Hughes
Allegro & Adagio Op. 31, No. 1—Eleanor Hyde
Indian Love Songs—Finden
Lullaby—Grodzki
Berceuse—Ethel McCloskey
Selected—Hazel Hawkins

Hicks, Miss Lena Naples, Miss Anna Berger, Milton Pinker, Carl Gatlin, Earl Maier, Gilbert Nall, Emmett Hanum, Victor Croft, Pelham McCallan, Glenn Simmons, Chester Boldt, Les Boldt, Harold MacCallan, on the mandolin; Edwin Espinosa, Theodore Gatlin, on the violin; Earl Montgomery, Lawrence Gatlin, on the guitar; and Miss Ella Haines, piano accompanist.

The spacious rooms of the Dimond residence were taxed to the limit to accommodate the parents and relatives of the pupils taking part, besides the other pupils who did not take part in the program owing to the fact that they have not studied the required length of time to appear.

This was the first recital that the Dimond Music school has given.

"The Crucifixion" Friday Night.
On the night of Good Friday, April 19, St. George's famous cantata "The Crucifixion" will be rendered by a large chorus of voices in the Presbyterian church. Admission will be free, and the public is cordially invited. The solo parts will be sung by Messrs. Andrews and Christian.

Goldenhair and the Three Bears.
A delightful cantata, "Goldenhair and the Three Bears," is to be put on by the pupils of the First ward school under the auspices of the Parent-Teachers association, about the middle of May.

The proceeds will go toward completing the payment of the piano, which is in the school.

Those who are to take part are learning their lines and rehearsing will begin immediately after Mrs. E. L. Bradford's return from Massachusetts.

University News.
Dr. John Zeigler of Helen gave a very interesting talk in assembly on Wednesday on "The Value of Education."

The Y. W. C. A. gave a delightful social in the gymnasium Thursday afternoon.

Of interest to all friends of education in general, and of the classics in particular, is the announcement that Professor Lynn B. Mitchell, Ph. D., head of the department of Latin and Greek, at the university, has just issued a bulletin giving information on the Rhodes scholarships.

The pamphlet is a compilation of the material contained in Dr. Parkins' book on the Rhodes scholarships and of the contents of several memoranda sent out by the Rhodes trust. The object of the pamphlet is to present to students some information on the Rhodes scholarships, so as to induce them, if possible to compete for this high honor.

The booklet contains a condensed life of Cecil John Rhodes, founder of the scholarships. It traces his life, from his birth in Bedford county, England, July 6, 1855, down to his death. His early struggles, both for an education and good health, are recorded, and the idea which brought forth his dream of a great Anglo-Saxon empire, the consequent foundation of the Rhodes scholarships are well and tersely told.

The ladies of the Central Avenue Methodist church served a delicious and especially successful cafeteria lunch Friday noon in the Hudson Motor car saloon.

Box Social.

Some New Books at the Albuquerque Public Library

SUNSHINE JANE. By Anne Warner.—Jane was a nurse, and her mission was not to cure sick bodies, but to heal sick souls. Jane belonged to the new order of Sunshine Nurses, whose religion was quite the modern, of all new, thought.

As she put it: "We're to see the sun is always shining, and always shine ourselves, and our training consists of going where there isn't any brightness and being bright and going where there isn't any happiness and making happiness."

So when she came to take care of her invalid aunt, who promptly discarded her invalidism and expounded her beliefs to friends and neighbors, the village found itself quite upset to the village. The character followed Jane's teachings as far as they were materially applicable themselves with the most astonishing results.

THE ROCKS OF VALPRE. By Ethel M. Dell.—The story of a girl who comes to the man who dominates her, before she is a stranger within her gates. And when the preux chevalier of her girlhood comes into her life she quickly comes to the realization that this companion of her summer idyls is a lover to the ladyman. The insect of her heart. It is a dramatic tale of two strong and upright men and a charming, impulsive girl.

THE LIFE OF A FLY. By Jean Fabre.—The genius of Fabre lies in his ability to humanize a phase of nature that has long been a sealed book to the layman. The insect world, to all but the scientist, has been a mystery.

FAMILIAR SPANISH TRAVELS. By William D. Howells.—In this new book of travels, Mr. Howells relates the incidents and impressions of his trip through Spain during the winter of 1911-1912. His sympathetic interest in Spain, which dates, he declares, from his boyhood reading of "Don Quixote," is apparent in all his descriptions of landscape, people and customs. He passes in review Spanish scenery, cathedrals and palaces; theatres and hotels; picturesque street scenes, Moorish remains; beggars and gypsies; gins and donkeys, all in a highly entertaining manner.

IT HAPPENED IN EGYPT. By Williamson.—It is a story of Egypt, and tells how Monny Gilder saw it Egyptian fashion. Monny was rich, attractive and self. So when he decided to see a hushab den, there she went willy-nilly; when she decided to recapture an American girl from her Egyptian husband, not all the Mohammedans of Luxor could prevent her. How Fenton finally wins Monny, and Biddy finds her first love again are the romances of the story, to which are bound the mysteries of the desert are in the background.
